NEW QUESTION: 3

Consider two bonds, A and B.
 They are both issued by the same corporate firm. They both have the same maturity, seniority, and coupon. The only difference between the two bonds is that A is callable and B is not. Which of the following most likely best describe the relationship between A and B

- A. Bond A will have a lower yield than bond B
- B. Bond A will have a higher yield than bond B
- C. Bond B will have a lower price than bond A

Answer: B

Explanation:

Both bonds are identical except of the cal option embedded in bond A.

The option is granted to the issuer by the investors. As compensation, the investors receive a higher yield.
